MY MEDICA Inc.

Partnered with LOGISTEED to Enhance Safe Operation Management

Encouraging pre-emptive medical treatment for drivers based on daily vital data

MY MEDICA Inc. (Head Office: Yokohama-shi, Kanagawa; Representative Director and President: Tadashi Ito), subsidiary of Yamato Holdings Co., Ltd. (Headquarters: Chuo-ku, Tokyo; Representative Director and President: Yutaka Nagao), hereby announces that it has signed a partnership agreement with LOGISTEED, Ltd. In this agreement, the two companies aim to eliminate health-related accidents among trucking companies by encouraging pre-emptive medical treatment of drivers who have been determined to be at high driving risk based on daily vital data.

■ Activity Content

MY MEDICA, a service provided by the company of the same name that offers seamless online access to medical appointments, medical care, medication instruction, medication delivery, and payment, and SSCV®-Safety, a safety operation management solution provided by LOGISTEED, will be integrated to encourage pre-emptive medical treatment for drivers who are identified as high risk for driving. Going forward, the partner companies plan to improve the accuracy of physical condition checks and the quality of services through system integration.

1. Detection of driving risk and encouragement of pre-emptive medical treatment

A system will be established whereby drivers who are determined to be at high risk for driving based on their daily vital data managed by SSCV®-Safety can receive online medical treatment via MY MEDICA.

2. Improving health management accuracy through system integration

In the future, by mutually integrating medical treatment status in MY MEDICA's database and drivers' vital data in SSCV®-Safety's database, the accuracy of physical condition checks during attendance checks and the quality of online healthcare services will be improved.

■ Comments

Yutaka Haga, Executive Officer, CDXO and CTO, General Manager, Logistics Solutions Management Headquarters, LOGISTEED, Ltd.

At LOGISTEED, we aim to provide a fundamental solution to the serious social issue of health-related accidents among truck drivers by combining the power of technology and medicine.

The integration of our SSCV®-Safety and MY MEDICA's online medical services is the first step toward building a new kind of social infrastructure that supports everything from physical condition checks to medical treatment in a single step.

This initiative will revolutionize the state of safe operation in the logistics industry, and we will continue to take on the challenge of health management and value creation by deepening logistics DX with system integration and data-driven activities while leveraging the strengths of both companies.

■ Background

MY MEDICA was launched in February 2025 to help road haulage operators manage the health of their employees and prevent serious illnesses, and is currently in use by more than 50 companies in the truck, taxi, and bus industries. Together with our partners, we are promoting efforts to reduce health-related accidents among road haulage operators by signing partnership agreements with GIMIC Co., Ltd. in May 2025 and the NPO Healthcare Network in July 2025.

LOGISTEED has developed its own safety operation management solution, SSCV®-Safety, which uses AI to analyze driver vital data acquired via IoT to detect early signs of poor physical condition, and has installed this solution in its entire fleet. In addition to managing daily attendance information and vital data of drivers, AI automatically detects fatigue conditions and provides real-time voice notifications to reduce the number of near misses.
